

Nature in the City Photography Contest

Fall River has incredible natural resources, all within the bounds of the city - the 13,000 acres of the BioReserve, the redeveloped Waterfront Park on the Taunton River, the newly created Alfred J. Lima Quequechan River Rail Trail, Cook Pond trail, and the many parks in neighborhoods around the city.

The purpose of this photography contest is to share the wonders of experiencing nature in the city by taking pictures of what we see and enjoy in these areas. It is open to everyone who lives, works, or goes to school in Fall River.

The theme for the contest is broadly "nature in the city" - but this can be interpreted in many different and creative ways. It includes photographs of nature in Fall River, BUT also of people who are enjoying nature and the out-of-doors in any of Fall River's parks and trails.

Prizes will be awarded in the following categories:

Ages 14 and under: First prize-$75 Second prize-$50 Honorable Mention

Ages 15 to 21: First prize-$75 Second prize-$50 Honorable Mention

Ages over 21 who is NOT a professional photographer:

First prize-$75 Second prize-$50 Honorable Mention

Professional Photographers:

There are no monetary prizes, but all the photographs receiving prizes and Honorable Mention will be displayed at the Narrows exhibit, on display from June 3rd until July 15th.

Prizes will be awarded at the opening reception on June 3rd.

Organized by Friends of Alfred J. Lima Quequechan River Rail Trail
Sponsored by a University of Massachusetts Creative Economies Grant

Nature in the City Photography Contest Submission Guidelines

Submission Deadline: May 1st, 2017

Submit the following information in an e-mail:

Name

Age

School (if any)

Home Address

Title & location of the photograph

Caption for the photograph (up to 50 words)

Are you a professional photographer – yes or no

Submit a jpeg of your photo as an attachment to your e-mail.

PLEASE use the best camera you have and submit the highest resolution image possible. (You can use your phone camera, but prints of these photos will have to be relatively small.)

If you are submitting multiple photographs, please submit them in separate e-mails. One person can submit up to 6 photographs.

In the subject line of the e-mail put: Nature in the City

Send to submissions via e-mail to: aklimt@umassd.edu